[illegible] MAY SE[illegible]

This Week Will Perhaps Settle the Question of Who Is W[illegible] the Governor-ship of Colorado.

QUESTION OF [illegible] ON DEBATE

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Feb. 28.—It is not improb[able] that the contest for the governor[ship] seat will be finished by Saturday nigh[t]. It seems to be the consensus of opinio[n] among the members of the contes[t] committee that eight hours is enoug[h] time to allow the attorneys on eac[h] side to present their arguments to the assembly.

Since the joint contest committee wil[l] submit its report to the general as[sembly] on Thursday, there is no ap[parent] reason why the arguments should not be completed if the attorneys on both sides are limited to eight hours, and the final vote taken not later than Saturday afternoon or Saturday night.

At an executive session of the contest committee this afternoon a special committee of five consisting of Senators Jefferson and Hill and Representatives Thomas, Thompson and Healey was appointed to outline the procedure to be recommended by the joint committee to the general assembly governing the arguments on the final vote. This committee is instructed to report back to the joint committee at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is said that its five members all favor limiting the debates before the general assembly to 16 hours, eight hours a side.

The time for the preparation of the report or the reports of the joint legislative contest committee to the general assembly expires tomorrow night, and it is possible that the first ballot of the members of the committee on the report will be taken at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. When the sense of the majority of the members is ascertained the report will be drafted accordingly constituting the majority report to be submitted to the general assembly on Thursday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—Battling Nelson, of Chicago, made Young Corbett of Denver, appear the poorest tyro in the fighting game tonight, when he practically knocked him out in the middle of the ninth round. In order to save their man a complete knockout [his] seconds threw up the sponge. Corbett was not in it with the young Dane at any stage.

Round 1. Corbett danced about looking confident, while Nelson wore a more serious air. Corbett continued to dance [care]fully a minute, trying to draw Nelson. Then he quickly shot a straight left over the heart and missed a similar attempt. Two lefts for the head went wild and a straight right landed on Nelson's chest. More sparring followed and Nelson planted left to the stomach and Corbett drove his left hard to the face, bringing a thin stream of blood from Nelson's mouth. Corbett [put t]wo lefts to the body and then drove a smashing right to the body. Nelson then sent Corbett back to the ropes with a straight right to the forehead. Then they mixed it fiercely, Corbett landing a vicious left to the face and a right high on the body as the bell rang. The advantage was with Corbett, Nelson throughout acted mostly on the defensive.

Round 2. Nelson crouched low, Corbett in mixing it fiercely but did not land. They kept at close quarters, Corbett landing left and right short arm [to] the jaw. He tried his [right] and left to [illegible] but ran into a stiff right haymaker [and a] right to the jaw. They fought desperately at close quarters, Corbett resting his head on Nelson's chest but failing to worry Nelson. The crowd yelled "break" and the referee separated the [men]. Again they went to close quarters, Nelson uppercutting Corbett on the jaw with the right. Corbett then planted a fierce right to the body but Nelson kept after the Denver boy and forced him to cover. Corbett jabbed two lefts to the face and just previous to the gong swung a hard right to the face. It was a desperate round, both roughing it considerably, with Nelson the chief offender. Corbett had a shade the better of the round.

Round 6. Corbett looked worried as he toed the scratch. Nelson forced him to a corner but Corbett wiggled out. Then they went to a clinch and Nelson shoved Corbett to the floor. Arising, Corbett uppercut with left to the chin and missed a viscious right for the head. Nelson kept boring in, forcing Corbett to the ropes. He then landed left and right swing to Corbett's face and blocked an attempt at a vicious counter. Corbett then ran into a straight left on the face and Nelson landed left and right to the jaw and face sending Corbett about the ring like a feather. Corbett fought back gamely but Nelson was too strong and planted right and left to the jaw as the bell sounded, Corbett went to his corner groggy.

Round 7. Nelson quickly drove right to the face but received in return a right to the ribs and a left to the face. The Denver boy continued to break ground, Nelson followed him, landing left and right uppercuts to the face. Corbett jolted Nelson with right to the face but the Dane scarcely noticed it. Nelson got Corbett against the ropes, [illegible] putting right and left swings to the jaw. Corbett failed to land at any stage and was dazed. Nelson kept pegging away sending his usual volley of right and left jolts to the face. Corbett fought like a drowning man grasping a straw but Nelson showed him no mercy. Occasionally Corbett whipped his right to the jaw but it was returned threefold. Corbett took a terrific beating in the round and looked like a defeated man as he went to his corner. It was all Nelson's round.

[illegible] SHOWN IN [illegible] BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—Battling Nelson of Chicago and Young Corbett, ex-champion featherweight of the world, met for the second time at Woodward's pavilion tonight to determine which of the two shall meet Champion Britt in a return match in the near future. Between four and five thousand people witnessed the spectacle and it is estimated the receipts will approximate $15,000.

For the first time in his fistic career [Corbett] entered the ring a favorite in the betting, the result, apparently, of his [previ]ous victory over the ex-feather[weight] champion. That Corbett, however, has not suffered in popularity was [attes]ted by the great ovation accorded him when he appeared at Harry Corbett's resort at 6 o'clock this afternoon preparatory to weighing in, which demonstration was more than duplicated when the Denverite skipped the arena [all] ready for action.

Corbett in Good Condition.

Corbett, who has time and again claimed lack of condition as the cause of his recent defeats at the hands of Nelson, and realizing that defeat tonight would send him into pugilistic obscurity, has trained faithfully and unremittingly for the past two months. He himself tonight announced that he was in absolutely perfect shape. This statement was easily corroborated when stripped for action, as it was plain that the man who twice lowered the colors of McGovern was fit to fight the battle of his life. He looked strong and confident and [his] battle expressed himself as hopeful [of an] early and easy victory.

Nelson likewise has devoted himself to a drastic course in training, but unlike Corbett, has experienced much difficulty in making the specified weight. [He was] compelled to continue his conditioning process until the day of the battle. Corbett spent the last day [illegible]. It was learned from unimpeachable sources that Nelson was compelled to spend part of today in a bath establishment in order to save his forfeit, which fact, however, was not generally known by the public at large. Physically Nelson showed little signs of the wear and tear of this method of training; he jumped through the ropes.

Harry Corbett's, where the principals weighed was the center of attraction. Nelson was the first to appear and immediately jumped on the scales. The bar was at the 130 notch and the Dane, entirely stripped, made the beam quiver. It is observed that he was if anything a fraction of an ounce in excess of the stipulated weight. On the other hand Corbett did not budge the beam. It is given out authentically that the champion was from one-half to three quarters of a pound under weight.

Brisk Betting.

Betting on the result of tonight's contest was very brisk all day. Nelson on the strength of his recent victory over Corbett was installed favorite, with odds of 10 to 8 in his favor. As there was plenty of Nelson and Corbett money in sight at all times, the price was varied and when the men entered the ring ready for action, the odds were still at the figures above quoted. One of the notable features in the betting was a single bet of $5,000 [illegible] by a clique of race track men that Nelson would not win within 9 rounds.

Corbett's seconds tonight were the best that have been behind a pugilist in recent years. They are: Joe Gans, Spider Kelly, McGrath and Billy McDonald.

Nelson was well looked after, also, having as seconds Billy Nolan, Fred Landers, "Smiling" Metzer and "Rawhide" Kelly.

Jack Welch, of this city, refereed the main contest.

Two six-round preliminaries between local lights preceded the main event.

KUROPATKIN [illegible] JAPANESE ATTACK ON CENTER

General Battle in Progress Along the Whole 100-Mile Front in Manchuria---Kuroki Seriously Threatens the Russian Left Wing—St. Petersburg Officials Are Pleased at Results.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 1.—1:50 a. m.—Last evening's news from Manchuria is of the most important nature, the Associated Press dispatch from Mukden which was transmitted at noon on Tuesday, indicating that a general battle was beginning along the whole of the 100 miles of front occupied by the two armies. General Kuropatkin appears to have taken a leaf out of Field Marshal Oyama's book and replied to General Kuroki's attack on the Russian left by a counter attack on the Japanese right in which General Kaulbar's initial success is better for the Russians than the success of General Grippenburg, the Russian vanguard being established at the outskirts of Sandiapu.

Russians Take Bridge.

At the same time General Kuropatkin delivered a blow against the Japanese center, seizing a railroad bridge across the Shakhe river. These reports, therefore give a more hopeful aspect to the situation as the Russian army, though driven out of Da pass, appears to have succeeded in stopping, at least for the moment, the further advance of the Japanese eastward and beaten off the attack on the center.

The effect of yesterday's developments on General Kuropatkin's reported intention to withdraw from the Shakhe is problematical. Retirement in the face of an enemy which is extremely hazardous, under any circumstances, is doubly dangerous when the armies are grappling in a general engagement, but if General Kuroki succeeds in rolling up the Russian left much further the perilous expedient may become necessary.

The counter strokes on the right and center may possibly be intended to cover the withdrawal of trains and stores. If, however, General Kuropatkin is determined to stand and fight out the battle on the line which he has held during the winter and if he should be able to administer a vigorous check to General Kuroki he has secured a good position for his second move in the great game.

Heavy Losses to Kuroki.

MUKDEN, Feb. 28.—Noon.—Fighting is in progress today along the whole line, the Japanese attacking everywhere. All attacks this morning were beaten back and the Russians made counter attacks at many places. On the right flank the Russians occupied the village of Boatatzsi and from that position hurled hand grenades across the intervening ravine into the Japanese trenches at Sandiapu, causing heavy loss and great disorder.

Many Determined Attacks.

MUKDEN, Feb. 28.—10 p. m.—The Russians have seized the head of the bridge across the Shakhe river in the center of the Japanese lines assisted by artillery firing from Poutiloff hill.

Ten determined attacks opposite Yansingtun and west of Vanupudzi were all repulsed with heavy loss.

TELLER COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

MONTHLY MEETING ADDRESSED BY DENVER DOCTORS—BANQUET FOLLOWS WITH TOASTS BY DISTRICT MEDICAL MEN.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—The Teller county medical society held their regular monthly meeting tonight in the parlor of the National hotel. Dr. J. M. Ball and Leonard Freeman of Denver were present and each gave a short talk. The two gentlemen while in the city are the guests of the local physicians.

After the short lectures had taken place a banquet was given in the dining room at which time table topics limited to five minutes each were in order.

The toastmaster of the banquet was Dr. V. R. Pennock, president of the society. Dr. MacGruder spoke on "The Business Side of the Doctor's Life." Dr. Lattimer took as his subject "The Village vs. the City Doctor"; Dr. Katherine Polly, the present superintendent of schools of Teller county, spoke on, "The Doctor in Politics." Dr. Gaston followed and had as his subject "The Poetry of Medical Practice"; Dr. Cohen took as his subject, "New Things in Medicine and Surgery." Dr. Will Hassenplug closed the evening's speeches taking as his subject "Medical Ethics." The evening proved not only to be a grand success for the fraternity but very instructive to all present.

CAMILLA G. M. COMPANY.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Certificates of incorporation were filed with the county clerk and recorder by the Camilla Gold Mining company capitalized for $1,500,000 with the same number of shares at a par value of $1 each. The directors of the company for the first year will be J. F. Tucker and F. L. Ballard of Colorado Springs, J. E. Jones, H. L. Shepard and V. B. Cosad of Cripple Creek. The principal office will be located in this city and operations will be confined to Teller county.

FIGURES ON THE FEBRUARY OUTPUT OF CRIPPLE CREEK

Falls Slightly Below That of January on Account of Some Extremely Cold Weather and the Shorter Month.

48,8[illegible] TONS VALUED AT $1,687,[illegible]

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Considering that the month was a short one and many properties were closed for several days during the extremely cold weather, February's production was very gratifying although it shows a slight falling off over that of January.

During the month of February the mines of the district produced 48,800 tons having a value of $1,687,000.

During the month the Homestake cyanide plant was closed down on account of the installation of new machinery and from present appearances March will undoubtedly be a great month as a number of new leases of the Stratton property will be in operation and should materially add to the output of the district.

The figures received from mills and smelters for February are as follows:

	No. Tons.	Av. Val.	Total.
U. S. R. & R.	22,500	$30	[illegible]
Smelters	9,000	65	585,000

[illegible] IN WARFORD CASE

Subpoenas Have Been Issued for 167 Witnesses---Statement to Jury by Special Prosecutor Scott Couched in Strong Language.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—The murder trial in which James Warford is charged with the death of Isaac Lebo at Goldfield on last election day is now fully under way. The case is exciting considerable interest and promises to be one of the most bitterly fought cases in the annals of Teller county. So far 167 witnesses have been notified that their testimony will be received.

Special Prosecutor Tully Scott made an address to the jury this afternoon at the commencement of the trial and never for a minute during his talk to the jurymen did he mince his words, repeatedly calling it a deliberate and inexcusable murder.

Mr. Scott went over the case before the jurors in a similar manner to what it has been published at different times and at the conclusion of his address Attorney McAllister for the defense stated that they would reserve their statement until later.

A number of doctors were upon the stand this morning who had seen the wounded man and examined his injuries. The testimony up to the present has not been of a particularly startling nature.

The dying statement of Lebo will be the bone of contention in the trial. Dr. Cohen stated that he had been requested by Attorney T. B. McDonald, then acting as deputy district attorney to notify Lebo that he was going to die and that he had better make any statement that he cared to. It was admitted that the patient was delirious from peritonitis. From the defense's cross-examination it is seen clearly that they expect to show that Lebo was in a delirious state, and therefore the statement could not be an intelligent one.

ESCAPE WAS MIRACULOUS

Special to the Gazette.

VICTOR, Feb. 28.—Charles Chris. Lennicke, a cager on the Hull City property, with his right thigh crushed nearly to a pulp, his left broken in two places, bruised and bleeding, suffering untold agonies, clung to a bell cord with one hand and saved himself today from falling 800 feet to the bottom of the shaft until he could be rescued by fellow workmen.

Lennicke had just been to the second level taking down some empty ore cars, when he gave the signal to be hoisted to surface. After the cage had ascended only a few feet, in some way he lost his balance, falling backward from the cage into the shaft. His escape from instant death is miraculous.

As his body was being squeezed between the bottom of the cage and the timbers he grasped the steel bell cord with his left hand, hanging on, and shouting until other miners working in the 200-foot level could climb up the shaft to where he was hanging when he was rescued from his perilous position.

The cage was lowered to the second level and the man was removed to the Victor hospital and later to the Sisters hospital in Cripple Creek where his injuries were attended.

While he is in the most precarious condition tonight hope is held out by the attending physician for his ultimate recovery. He has a wife and two children residing in this city.

HOUSE PASSES BILLS BY UNANIMOUS CONSENT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—As an evidence of the approaching adjournment a large number of bills were passed by the house by unanimous consent, and an evening session was held in order to discuss the general deficiency appropriation bill.

During the day the bills amending the homestead laws as to lands in South Dakota and Colorado so as to permit the entry of 640 acres instead of 160 acres discussed. Final action on them, however, was prevented by the dilatory tactics of the opposition.

The house then began consideration of the general deficiency appropriation bill.

MEETS INSTANT DEATH IN MINE

THOMAS O'HARA IS KILLED BY FALLING DOWN THE 300-FOOT SHAFT OF THE DILLON MINE.

Special to the Gazette.

VICTOR, Feb. 28. At 10:45 a. m. Thomas O'Hara was instantly killed by falling down the shaft on the Dillon mine.

O'Hara, employed as a trammer, was working in one of the upper levels and while pushing a loaded car to the station to be brought to surface, pushed the car into the opening. The car carried O'Hara with it. He fell a distance of 300 feet to the bottom, where he was found a short time after with hardly a whole bone left in his body.

Fellow miners hearing the noise caused by the car of ore going down the shaft immediately made a search, finding O'Hara partly covered with rock and dirt and both arms and legs broken and his skull badly crushed.

The body was immediately raised to the surface and Coroner Gos[illegible] was notified. A little later he arrived and removed the mangled remains to the morgue in Cripple Creek.

Deceased was about 45 years of age and single, being comparatively a new comer to the district. Very little is known about his relatives. Every effort is being made by the authorities to locate them. At present no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—The Cripple Creek District Citizens alliance is mailing throughout the district a letter recounting what has been accomplished since the organisation was formed in this district. RUSSIANS LOST OVER TWO THOUSAND MEN

Recent Battle Was Heavily in Favor of Oyama—St. Petersburg Fears News of Kuroki's Success—Decisive Victory Would Pass.

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—It is reported that when the Japanese attacked and defeated the Russians February 23 at Tsinkhetchen, twenty-five miles north of Simechi on the extreme Japanese right, the Russians numbered 12,000 men. Their losses are estimated at two thousand. The Japanese losses were slight.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—8:58 p. m.—The Associated Press hears from a high source that General Kuropatkin considers his position on the Shakhe river to be menaced to such an extent, because of General Kuroki's success on the left flank, as to necessitate the immediate withdrawal of his army to Tie Pass, and has so advised Emperor Nicholas.

No confirmation of this is obtainable in military circles here, where it is pointed out that with the Japanese pressing the whole Russian line, such an operation must inevitably end in disaster of the first magnitude.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—The fragmentary official and press reports of the fresh reverse sustained by General Kuropatkin are inadequate to draw a conclusion of the magnitude of General Kuroki's success against the Russian left but the public, as usual is ready to believe the worst.

The city is already full of reports that a big disaster has overtaken the Russian arms according to which Mukden has been outflanked and is untenable and Kuropatkin is withdrawing from his strong position on the Shakhe river.

That such reports are exaggerated is beyond question but although reticent and seeking to minimize the operations of the last few days, the officials of the war office are plainly discouraged at the fashion in which Kuroki is able to drive in and turn the Russian extreme left, his advance columns actually crossing the Shakhe river.

It is admitted that the fighting was desperate at several passes—Sunday and Monday, while the front was being involved, the purpose of Field Marshal Oyama evidently being to keep the center and right engaged and prevent Kuropatkin from sending reinforcements to head off Kuroki.

Should Kuroki cross the Hun river, the high road to Tie Pass, forty miles north of Mukden, would be open and Kuropatkin's retreat threatened.

Further news is awaited with great anxiety. Anything like a decisive Japanese victory would probably end the war.

... ATTACKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—General Kuropatkin, in a dispatch to Emperor Nicholas, dated today, says:

"Ten attacks, made by two Japanese battalions and some cavalry west of the village of Tansingtong, have been repulsed. The Japanese renewed the attack in the morning of February 26, and were again repulsed. They left a hundred corpses in front of our positions. The Russian loss was six men."

HARD FIGHTING

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—6 p. m.—Official reports of the battle of Tsinketchen indicate that severe fighting occurred. The Japanese attacking force began the occupation of points on the left bank of the Taitse river February 19, but the topography of the country, steep hills, the river and heavy snow, delayed the attack.

The first line attacked Tsinkhetchen at noon, February 23, assaulting fiercely. The Russians held strongly fortified positions with obstructions protecting them and resisted determinedly. The fighting continued February 23, and was resumed at dawn February 24.

At 10 in the morning the two lines closed and attackers and defenders exchanged hand grenades.

While continuing their frontal attack the Japanese executed a flank attack with the result that the Russians abandoned and burned the town and fled northward in confusion. The Russians left 150 dead on the field.

The Chinese estimate the Russian losses at Tsinketchen at 1,000. The Japanese captured three machine guns, many rifles, a quantity of ammunition, a number of maps and 24 prisoners.

The reports say that not any of the Japanese suffered from frost bite in spite of the intense cold.

JAPS GAIN A BIG VICTORY OVER RENNENKAMPF'S FORCES

GEN. KUROPATKIN'S HEADQUARTERS, Feb. 26.—Via Fusan, Feb. 28.—The Japanese yesterday (Saturday) achieved a signal victory over the forces commanded by Lieutenant General Rennenkampf.

While this victory is important in itself, it is more so because of the strategic advantage gained by the Japanese. The fighting was over a mountainous country between thirty and forty-five miles east of Yental, which is about fifteen miles northeast of Liao Yang.

General Kuroki's infantry again displayed remarkable qualities as hill fighters and proved their superiority to the famous cavalry of the Russians.

The right of the Japanese winter position has been near Ponchi, extending toward the southeast on the south of the Shakhe river and west of the Taitse river.

In yesterday's movement, a body of Japanese troops which had been advancing from Ponchi swung around toward the northeast and swept the Russians before them. The Japanese now hold strong lines, extending from southwest to northeast and partly eastward of the Taitse river, threatening the Russian left flank.

General Rennenkampf commanded a division and a half of cavalry, a division of infantry and a body of sharpshooters, with full complements of guns.

The principal engagement was northeast of Chinhochen, where the Russians held strongly defended entrenchments. The Russians left two hundred and three dead on the field there and lost several machine guns. Their casualties are estimated at over 2,000. On Friday night the Japanese took Tekiteki hill which is south of the Shakhe river and a short distance northwest of Waitao mountain.

The Japanese attack was supported by a strong line of artillery, a reserve of seven batteries being discovered east of Kandolesan, which is yet silent.

The Japanese army now holds a line from Syaobehe, opposite Dzhantan, through Shahopao, along the Shakhe river to Vanupudzi and thence to Da pass and Toumadzi southeastward.

The Japanese have effected a crossing of the Shakhe at Vanupudzi and attacked the Russian center under cover of darkness February 26, driving back the Russian advance posts, but supports came up and stopped the Japanese advance.

The officer in command of the Japanese heard the Russians cry out that their cartridges were exhausted and they thereupon advanced in cautiously and received a volley at point blank range, losing heavily.

TERROR AMONG DUKES

Duchess Marie Trying to Prevent Vladimir from Becoming a Victim—Police Seem to be Impotent.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—The utter impotency of the police in the face of the Terrorist organization is shown by the increasing boldness of the latter all over St. Petersburg. Even on the steps of the public buildings, simple notices of Grand Duke Sergius' death were found. They read:

"The sentence of death passed upon Sergius Alexandrovitch was executed February 17. (Signed) The fighting organization of the Social Democratic party."

Moreover, the notices were neatly printed, a thing unknown in the days of the late Interior Minister Von Plehve when similar notices were always run off on copying machines. The secret police then were too close on the heels of the Terrorists to permit the use of a printing press.

The Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna, whose husband, the Grand Duke Vladimir is high on the list of those condemned to death, is trying to shield his life with her own. Since Red Sunday the grand duke has not only been showered with threats and warnings but has twice received formal letters signed by different groups informing him of his sentence to death and of the assignment of men to execute it. At the same time the Grand Duchess Marie, like the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, in the case of Grand Duke Sergius, was notified that her life and her son's lives would be spared, and she was appealed to not to go abroad in her husband's company. The letters naturally terrorized the family and household of the grand duke, who has aged greatly during the last few weeks under the strain of what he insists is the unjust criticism which placed the responsibility for the bloodshed of January 22, wholly on his shoulders. Although the grand duke's health has been failing for over a year, he is now almost a complete wreck. For a time the entreaties of his family and the warnings of the police sufficed to keep him within the walls of the palace, but since the funeral of Grand Duke Sergius, Grand Duke Vladimir has shaken off restraint, declaring that he refuses to show cowardice, and not only drives out in a closed carriage, but on Sunday walked for a short time up and down the quay, in front of the Winter palace. At his side, however, on each occasion, was the Grand Duchess Marie. The grand duke tries to elude her, but she insists on being immediately apprised if he goes out, donning wraps and accompanying him. Today Grand Duke Vladimir received a letter from one group which had previously warned him, saying, his sentence was temporarily suspended, which is attributed either to a more correct appraisement of his share in the events of January 22, or to a general decision of the Terrorists to give autocracy a breathing spell, and await the result of the assassination of Grand Duke Sergius. The latter coincides with the views of those acquainted with the methods of the Terrorists, who point out that a succession of assassinations would defeat their object by compelling the emperor in the interest of the safety of the imperial family, to thrust aside all questions of concessions and to sanction the most drastic measures of repression.

SENATOR KEARNS, IN FAREWELL, SCORES ... MORMON ...

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. Kearns, being recognized in the senate today, said he could not permit the occasion to pass without saying what it seemed should be said by a senator under such conditions, before leaving public life. He then reviewed the history of Utah and recited the conditions under which statehood was granted.

"The pledges given by the people of Utah," said the senator, "I believe consisted of the following propositions: 'That the Mormon leaders would live within the laws pertaining to plural marriage relations, and that they would enforce this obligation upon all of their followers, under penalty of disfellowship.

"'That the leaders of the Mormon church would no longer exercise political sway, and that their followers would be free, and would exercise their freedom in politics, in business and in social affairs.'"

Continuing, he said:

"Utah secured her statehood by a solemn compact made by the Mormon leaders in behalf of themselves and their people.

"That compact has been broken wilfully and frequently.

"No apostle of the Mormon church has publicly protested against that violation.

Defines Attitude.

"I know the gravity of the utterances that I have just made. I know what are the probable consequences to myself. But I have pondered long and earnestly upon this subject and have come to the conclusion that duty to the innocent people of my state, and obligation to the senate and the country, require that I shall clearly define my attitude."

Mr. Kearns described the surroundings and the powers of President Smith, who, he said, affects a regal state, and has established himself with the dignity of a monarch.

"In all this social system," said Mr. Kearns, "each apostle has his great part. He is inseparable from it. He wields now such part of the power as the monarch may permit him to enjoy; and it is his hope and expectation that he will outlive those who are his seniors in rank, in order that he may become their ruler."

Gets Millions.

Taking up the business policy of the church, Mr. Kearns charged that it amounts to a monopoly. He recited the holdings of President Smith by virtue of his office as well as his private holdings, and said that when Smith became president, he boasted of his property, while now he "is in receipt of an income like unto that which a royal family derives from a national treasury. One-tenth of all the annual earnings of all the Mormons in all the world flows to him. These funds amount to one million six hundred thousand dollars annually."

Continuing, Mr. Kearns said:

"Parties are nothing to these leaders, except as parties may be used by them. So long as there is a Republican administration and congress, the Mormons will lead their followers to support Republican tickets; but, if by any chance, the Democratic party should control this government, with a prospect of continuing in power, you would see a gradual veering around under the direction of the Mormon leaders. No man can be elected to either house of congress against their wish."

The election of Senator Rawlins was charged by Mr. Kearns to have been due entirely to the Mormon church, in order to humiliate a deposed apostle. He then took up the charge that he (Kearns) had bought his own seat from President Lorenzo Snow. The senator spoke of his friendship for President Snow, as having arisen from the events attendant on Utah's struggle for statehood and added:

His Own Election.

"For some reason, he did not oppose my election to the senate. Every other candidate for the place had sought his favor; it came to me without price or solicitation on my part. The friend and mouthpieces of some of the present leaders have been base enough to charge that I bought the senatorship from Lorenzo Snow, president of their own church. Here and now I denounce the calumny against that old man, whose unsought and unbought favor came to me in that contest. That I ever paid to him one dollar of money or asked him to influence legislators of his faith, is as cruel a falsehood as ever came from human lips. So far as I am concerned, he held his power with clean hands; and I would protect the memory of this dead man against all the abuse and misrepresentation which might be heaped upon him by those who were his adherents during life, but who now attack his fame in order that they may pay the greater deference to the present king. I am about to retire from this place of dignity. No man can retain this seat from Utah and retain his self-respect, after he discovers the methods by which his election is procured, and the objects which the church monarchy intends to achieve.

His Successor.

"When the question of my successor became a matter of great anxiety to numerous aspirants for this place, the discussion was not concerning the fitness of candidates nor the political popularity of the various gentlemen who composed that waiting list, nor the pledges of the legislators, but was limited to the question as to who could stand best with the church monarchy; as to whom it would like to use in this position; as to who could make for the extension of its ambition and power in the United States."

Mr. Kearns then took up the subject of the Mormon marriage relation and said:

Plural Marriages.

"Plural marriage relations have been continued defiantly, according to the will and pleasure of those who had formerly violated the law, and for whose obedience to law the church monarchy pledged the faith and honor of its leaders and followers alike in order to obtain statehood."

Mr. Kearns charged that every apostle of the church is in a large part responsible for this condition, and that it is quite evident the church monarchy is trying to re-establish the rule of the polygamous class over the mass of the Mormon people. He charged that not more than three or four of the quorum of apostles have refrained from practicing polygamy, and that "special reasons may exist in some particular case why a man in this class has not entered into such relation."

TWELVE MEN LOST WITH SCHOONER JESSE MATZER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—The schooner reported lost off Tomales bay yesterday has been identified as the Jesse Matzen.

Twelve men were aboard her at the time, and all were lost, according to a report received from the Point Reyes weather station. The schooner Mary C., which first was thought to be the stranded vessel is safe.

PEASANTS ... REVOLT ...

Fear That Disorders May Spread in Poland.

WARSAW, Feb. 28—10:30 p. m.—According to reliable information reaching Warsaw today the Poland peasant revolt, in view of the fact that the peasants number 7,000,000 out of a total population of 10,000,000 will, if it spreads, result in disorder far greater than anything that has arisen during the present agitation.

The peasants hitherto have not figured to any great extent in this agitation which is confined to the 2,000 workmen in the cities and towns. Socialists recently sent emissaries into the country districts for the purpose of stirring up the villages.

Speedy Success.

According to reports they met with speedy success. As 75 per cent. of the peasants are unable to read, they are easily led away by Socialistic orators.

The movement began at Pruszka and extended at once to Plotzk. It reached serious dimensions in the district of Siedlce, where a majority are Greek Catholics or Uniats. These, being exceedingly embittered by religious persecution, quickly joined the agitation and approached the landed proprietors with a demand for an increase of 50 per cent in their wages. Their demands being refused, they promptly struck. In many instances the peasant strikers resorted to violence.

Disturbances have been reported in nearly 40 villages where strikers closed government alcohol shops, the authorities making no attempt to interfere. The peasants' real grievances are exclusively in connection with the language and economic questions without any revolutionary ideas. They are under the methods of the local bureaucracy in making obligatory the use of the Russian language which they do not understand.

Reaches Many Villages.

It is stated that already 120 villages have declared they will not receive official proclamations in the Russian language.

The police in three out of 12 districts of Warsaw demanded an increase of pay on Saturday. This was granted on Sunday and all of the strikers returned to their posts. The entire force is now working. The authorities are instructing the military in police duty in order to be prepared in the event of other disturbances.

FOUR SENATORS ARE EXPELLED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. —The galleries and lobby of the senate were crowded in anticipation of a vote on the recommendation of the special investigation committee that Senators Emmons, Bunkers, Wright and French be expelled from the senate for receiving bribes, but all were expelled with but little ceremony.

Mrs. Emmons left the bed of her husband at the hospital to present in the senate when the report came up. She sat at her husband's desk.

The report of the committee was read in full. Senator Ralston moved its adoption. Senator Lukens seconded the motion and asked for a call.

The report of the committee was adopted by 35 affirmative ... The other five votes of the senate were not cast, the four accused senators and Senator Welch not voting.

In answer to a question Senator Shortridge was informed that the report of the committee merely recommended expulsion. Senator Lukens then offered a resolution providing for the expulsion of the accused men for malfeasance in office.

Judge Taylor Rules That Chadwick Indictments Must Stand.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—Judge Taylor, of the United States district court, today overruled the motion of Attorney J. P. Dawley, counsel for Mrs. Chadwick, that the two indictments returned against her by the federal grand jury on February 21, be quashed.

NAN PATTERSON

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Nan Patterson, the "Florodora" chorus girl, accused of the murder of Caesar Young, bookmaker, in June, last, will be called for trial in the criminal branch of the supreme court on the first Monday in April, according to the homicide schedule in the district attorney's office.

This arrangement was made after the service upon District Attorney Jerome today by Levy & Unger, the prisoner's counsel, of writs of habeas corpus and certiorari issued by Justice Gaylor in Brooklyn.

Lawyer Levy said he was prepared to furnish bail for $20,000, the amount fixed before Nan Patterson was brought to trial, or for any larger sum that may be required.

STRIKERS LIABLE TO ... REPRISALS

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—How greatly the prosecution of the war is embarrassed by the strike situation is made manifest by the exceptional measures inaugurated to break the railroad strike ... for the transportation of troops and munitions.

The demands of the men ... of wages have been granted ... government roads and the ... been conceded in the case of government arsenal ... ammunition factories.

In addition a statute has ... under which striking railway ... in time of war are subject to arrest and punishment by martial law, and Prince Hilkoff, minister of railroads and communications has notified all railroad strikers of the penalty under this law if they interfere with military trains.

Preparations are being made to man the Moscow-Brest line which must be kept open, with soldiers trained for the operation of railroads. There are several such battalions in the Russian army and these are being recruited to double their ordinary strength.

ORIGINAL OF HOLMES' FAMOUS PRODUCTION IS PURCHASED BY J. PIERPONT MORGAN FOR $4,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The original of Oliver Wendell Holmes's "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" has been purchased by J. P. Morgan for $4,000. The manuscript is in good condition and is to be placed among the most valuable in American literature.

CONGRESS ASKED TO PAY EXPENSE OF SWAYNE TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Immediately after the senate convened at 11 o'clock today, Mr. Kean from the committee on interstate commerce reported a resolution, authorizing that committee to conduct an inquiry into railroad rates during the approaching congressional recess, and it was referred to the committee on contingent expenses.

The house joint resolution authorizing the president to convey the thanks of the United States to foreign governments participating in the St. Louis exposition was agreed to.

Mr. Allison presented the final conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill and it was agreed to. He stated that the house had yielded to the senate on the price to be paid for a municipal building in Washington, which is $2,500,000.

A joint resolution presented by Mr. Fulton accepting the invitation of the management of the Lewis and Clarke exposition to be held next summer at Portland, Oregon, was adopted. It provides for the appointment of a committee of ten senators and fifteen members of the house of representatives to represent congress on that occasion.

The chair brought to the attention of the senate a communication from ex-Senators Thurston and Higgins, attorneys for Judge Swayne, in the recent impeachment trial, making request for a sufficient allowance to the judge to pay the expenses of the trial including counsel fees. The communication was referred to the committee on the judiciary.

The anti-polygamy resolution introduced by Mr. Dubois was then laid before the senate and Mr. Kearns addressed the senate.

REVISION OF LAWS IS DECIDED UPON

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—Count Alexis Ignatieff, a member of the council of empire, has been appointed president of the special conference for the revision of the exceptional laws designed for safeguarding public order. The committee of ministers has come to the conclusion that the Jewish restrictive laws, the methods of dealing with political agitators and similar special measures do not effect the desired result. Therefore with the approval of the emperor a revision has been decided upon.

MRS. LOUGH ... NOW ON TRIAL

CANON CITY, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Ada Lough, formerly a member of the Salvation Army, who was arrested last week on suspicion of being implicated in the disappearance of little Violet Tressider, was brought back here yesterday afternoon. She will have a hearing this afternoon.

It has been learned that she was in Durango and tried to rent a room, and that she had no money. She told the woman of whom she tried to secure lodging that she would have plenty of money in a few days as she had written to Bolden, of Starkville, and also to J. M. Tressider, demanding $750. She is said to have added that this money was to be given for the safe return of the child, Violet, and added, "If I do not get the money, I will throw the d... child down the shaft."

DEMANDS OF RAILWAY EMPLOYES ARE GRANTED

WARSAW, Feb. 28—Noon.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Vistula railroads today it was decided to grant most of the strikers' demands. It is hoped that train service will be resumed later in the day.

MRS. CODY ON WITNESS STAND

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Louisa Cody, for forty years the wife, business partner and helpmate of Colonel W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), the celebrated ex-scout, Indian fighter and showman, today took the witness stand in defense of her character and good name, which have been assailed by her husband in his sensational petition for a divorce, and to tell her side of the famous quarrel.

Mrs. Cody emphatically denied that she had ever attempted to poison her husband or that she had administered dragon's blood or any poison to him for the purpose of securing his love or gaining control over him.

ROBBER LYNCHED

RENO, Nev., Feb. 28.—A lynching took place last night at Hasen, Churchill county, the victim being one of two men accused of robbery at the railroad station. The alleged robbers ran into the sagebrush, where one of them was overtaken and hanged by a mob. The other escaped.

Japanese Desire to Investigate a Contract for Barracks.

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—The diet has adopted the report and settled the accounts of the committee appointed to investigate the questions arising over the contracts for the construction of barracks at Hokkaido, pronouncing the expenditure thereon illegal and unwarrantable.

The ruling of the chair preventing a vote on the question addressing the emperor on the subject produced a turbulent scene, during the closing of the discussion, the diet being angered because Secretary of ... Teraoutchi said that he was answerable to the sovereign and not to the diet.

The diet committee summoned M. Teraoutchi before the diet and briefly questioned him on the subject of contracts which were ... before his entrance into the ministry.

The opponents of the government admit that M. Teraout is blameless in the matter. It is ... that the Chief Quartermaster Toma, who resigned after assuming the responsibility of the contracts under discussion, will be restored to his position.

Collapse of a Floor in Brooklyn Church Causes Many Fatalities—A Rigid Investigation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—A searching investigation was begun today by the county and borough authorities of Brooklyn to ascertain the cause of the collapse of the floor of the Fleetstreet African Methodist Episcopal church of Zion last night, when ten persons were killed and upwards of fifty injured.

It was ascertained today that the cause of the collapse was the breaking of a heavy beam supporting the floor and running lengthwise of the church near the south wall.

Under the weight of the great number of people gathered above, it snapped square in two midway between the front and rear of the church.

Coroner Flaherty of Brooklyn today began his investigation and soon afterward declared that the disaster was due to gross negligence on the part of some one and asserted that it is his intention to fix the blame for it upon those guilty.

Three hundred persons were crowded into the pews and aisles of the church last evening to attend the funeral of Sidney Painter, when a section of the floor, about forty feet square fell into the basement ten feet below which was used as a Sunday school room.

Into that hole the throng of people fell until they filled it to the level of the floor, ten feet above. Eight of those killed were colored women and a similar large portion of the injured were women.

Those who were not either killed or badly injured became panic stricken and a terrible scene ensued when their frantic efforts to escape from the building in the absolute darkness and clouds of dust from splintered flooring added to the horror of the disaster.

Two hundred of the funeral party, members of the colored Order of Elks, who were assembled in the basement below the main floor of the church, were not under that portion of the floor which fell and so escaped injury.

Of the injured there are ten in the hospitals suffering from fractured limbs, broken bones and contusions but none of them is believed to be fatally injured. The greater portion of the number of injured were removed to their homes and their injuries are of a minor character. Death in nearly every case was due to suffocation.

DR. OSLER ... JOHNS HOPKINS

DISCUSSES MEN PAST FORTY

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 27.—The principal feature of the commemoration day exercises at the Johns Hopkins university was the farewell address of Dr. William Osler.

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him and his parting was the occasion of a great demonstration.

In the evening the Alumni association's banquet was held. He was the guest of honor and the affection of the old students turned to their pet name, "Uncle Billy," changed by request of its owner to "Reggie," in honor of his regius professorship at Oxford.

No announcement was made of his successor.

In his address Dr. Osler feelingly alluded to his gratitude for the kindness and friendship extended to him during his 16 years' connection with the university, and of his sorrow at leaving home and friends. The motives of his departure might be wondered at, he said, but he thought it best to allow his friends to remain at the wonder stage. At some time most men are called and are required to leave and take up new work. This call he had received.

Dr. Osler questioned whether his loss would be felt, or whether, to the contrary, it might have a stimulating benefit.

"A man comes into your life for a few years and you become attached to him, interested in his work and in his welfare, and perhaps you grow to love him as a son, and then he goes.

"After teaching for 30 years and coming into very intimate contact with my assistants my heart is all cicatrices, covered with one big 'milky patch.'"

Referring to the length of time in which a professor should stay at one university, Dr. Osler said:

"It passed my persimmon to tell how some good men—even lovable and righteous men in other respects—have the hardihood to stay in the same position for 25 years. To a man of active mind too long attachment to one college is apt to breed self-satisfaction, to narrow his outlook, to foster a local spirit and to promote senility. Much of the phenomenal success of this institution has been due to the concentration of a group of light-horse intellectuals, without local ties, whose operations were not restricted and whose allegiance indeed was not always national, yet who were willing to serve faithfully in what ever field of action they were placed.

"And this should be the attitude of a vigilant professoriate. As St. Paul preferred an evangelist without attachments, as more free for the work, so in the general interests of higher education a university president should cherish a proper nomadic spirit in the members of his faculty, even though it be on occasions a seeming detriment. A well-organized college trust could arrange a rotation of teachers which would be most stimulating all along the line. We are apt to grow stale and thin mentally if kept too long in the same pasture. Transferred to fresh fields, amid new surroundings and other colleagues, a man gets a fillip which may last for several years."

Dr. Osler went on to speak of the question of a fixed period of a teacher's time of service or age. He admitted that it is a delicate question, but declared it of infinite importance to university life. Except in some proprietary schools he could not recall any institution in which there is a time limit of 20 years, as in some of the London hospitals. He thought it a very serious matter to have all of the professors growing old at the same time. He remarked that he had two fixed ideas, concerning which he said:

"The first is the comparative uselessness of men above 40 years of age. This may seem shocking, and yet, read aright, the world's history bears out the statement. Take the sum of human achievement in action, in science, in art, in literature—subtract the work of the men above 40, and while we should miss great treasures, even priceless treasures, we would practically be where we are today. It is difficult to name a great and far-reaching conquest of the mind which has not been given to the world by a man on whose back the sun was still shining. The effective, moving, vitalizing work of the world is done between the ages of 25 and 40—those 15 golden years of plenty, the anabolic or constructive period, in which there is always a balance in the mental bank and the credit is still good. To modify an old saying, a man is sane morally at 30, rich mentally at 40, wise spiritually at 50—or never. The young men should be encouraged and afforded every possible chance to know what is in them. If there is one thing more than another upon which the professors of this university are to be congratulated it is this very sympathy and fellowship with their junior associates, upon whom really in many departments, in mine certainly, has fallen the brunt of the work.

When They Should Stop.

"My second fixed idea is the uselessness of men above 60 years of age, and the incalculable benefit it would be in commercial, political and in professional life if, as a matter of course, men stopped work at this age. Donne tells us in his 'Biathanatos' that by the laws of certain wise states sexagenarii were precipitated from a bridge, and in Rome men of that age were not admitted to the suffrage, and they were called deponati because the way to the senate was per pontem and they from age were not permitted to come hither.

"In that charming novel, 'The Fixed Period,' Anthony Trollope discusses the practical advantages in modern life of a return to this ancient usage, and the plot hinges upon the admirable scheme of a college at which 60 men retired for a year of contemplation before a peaceful departure by chloroform. That incalculable benefits might follow such a scheme, is apparent to any one who, like myself is nearing the limit, and who has made a careful study of the calamities which may befall men during the seventh and eighth decades."

After enumerating the evils and mistakes attributable to the sexagenarians, Dr. Osler declared:

"The teacher's life should have three periods—study until 25, investigation until 40, profession until 60, at which age I would have him retired on a double allowance. Whether Anthony Trollope's suggestion of a college and chloroform should be carried out or not, I have become a little dubious, as my own time is getting so short. I may say for the benefit of the public that with a woman I would advise an entirely different plan, since after 60 her influence on her sex may be most helpful, particularly if aided by those charming accessories, a cap and a fichu."

A SLOW DELIVERY.

SYMPATHETIC.

"When I was your age," said the gilded youth's father, "I was at work before 7 o'clock every morning."

"Yes," answered the young man. "If I had all the business cares you used to have maybe I'd get insomnia, too."—Washington Star.

RESUMPTION AT MOHICAN

MUCH DEPTH TO BE ADDED

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Among several resumptions of the past week, reference to which has been made from time to time in these columns, is that of the Mohican, a Battle mountain property that has long been idle. A lease on this ground has been taken by Seaman & Co. During the past few days they have been engaged in discharging the water that entered during the period of storms. It is probable that this work will be ended during the current week when operations may begin.

The Mohican has been penetrated by shaft to a depth of 700 feet and by laterals for a greater distance. It is understood that Seaman & Co. have no particular interest in the old workings except in the conditions their exposures suggest will be found in lower zones, the purpose of the new operators being to drop into depth and without loss of time, and there to engage in an investigation that contemplates several hundred feet of horizontal work. It is probable that 200 feet will be added to the shaft at the outset.

Neighbors of the Mohican include the Ajax, Portland, Gold Coin and others of renown. Nearby is the Granite in which a magnificent ore shoot was found about a year ago after exploration had been started at 1,000 feet depth.

NEW SHAFT FOR BLOCK NO. 20

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Arrangements have been completed by Newton & Peterson, lessees of block 20 of the Anaconda estate, for the installation of a hoist at a shaft about fifty feet west of their present outlet. Exploration will be advanced at the new point while extraction is in progress at the old avenue. These lessees are shipping screenings and other material with regularity and with considerable profit to themselves and the company.

SYLVANITE ... THE MARIPOSA

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Sylvanite ore is being developed by the lessees who succeeded Sam Stafford in the Mariposa property, situated on the west slope of Gold hill. There is a body of it eighteen inches in width which it is stated will yield about $200 worth of gold to the ton, according to assay tests. This shoot was developed by Stafford at a depth of about 100 feet and is being followed by the new operator on the same lines.

...BY SHIPPING AT ITS OLD RATE

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Despite the destruction of the engine house and the damage to machinery through a fire that swept over the premises last week, ore is leaving the mine at the same pace as heretofore. In fact such is the energy of the lessees that within twenty-four hours after the fire another hoist, one electrically driven, was in commission and performing good service. One to two carloads is the daily output, values ranging upward of $25 in gold to the ton.

NEW SHIPPER IN THE BOSS

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—It is reported that two carloads of ore will leave that part of the Cripple Creek Consolidated under lease to Davenport & Co. today. This is at the northern section of the estate and within the lines bounded by the Colorado Boss claims Nos. 1 and 2, report of developments in which were given in these columns several days ago. It is understood that the initial shipment is for trial purposes but that the lessee is pretty confident that it will gain a substantial return.

The Coming of Butter Bill

"WHOA, there! Steady, you, Vixen!" yelled Butter Bill half rising from his light seat and tightening his grip on the lines. The gray off-wheeler was becoming unmanageable; she turned nearly around in the harness, with angry snorts, and kicked furiously near the edge of the cliff. The other horses were getting the infection. "Consarn me for an idiot for hitching up that half-broken brown!" muttered Bill, between set teeth. He worked fiercely, but the iron grip on the lines and the whole powerful strength of the man were but as a broken reed against the now terrified and wholly demoralized team. Away they went on a mad gallop down the wild, steep California grade; the wagon lurched frightly, and the canvas cover dipped like a sail at sea, only for a few awful minutes, then the wheel struck a boulder, and with one mighty struggle and convulsion, wagon, driver and horses pitched into the canon below.

Many a year had Butter Bill freighted fruit from the valley and foothills up to the mining camps and daily ranches of the high Sierras, returning loaded with sweet mountain butter; his long, gaunt frame, with rugged, weather-beaten Yankee features and honest twinkling gray eyes, a familiar object in two counties and his name a household word all along the route.

"He's done for, Jim," said a young prospector to his partner, and the young fellows shook their heads sorrowfully, and surveyed the wreck of Butter Bill, stretched out on the rude bunk in their little cabin, bound and splinted by their awkward but willing hands.

"No use to go to town after Doc; couldn't get him here before midnight. I wish we could get some woman, though, to make things a bit more comfortable for the poor chap. "Jack, why not go after Widow Esman?"

Half an hour later the plump, kindly widow from the foothill ranch close at hand bent over the injured man. Her deft, womanly touches put a different aspect on the rough surroundings. Her eyes filled and overflowed. Presently the man stirred, looked up, and smiled faintly.

"Marthy," he muttered.

"Yes, Bill."

"Vixen was one too many for me. Guess I'll have to pull up stakes and move on, over the Great Divide. May be better so," he spoke with difficulty. "I've got something to say to you, Marthy."

"Yes, Bill."

"I've got a good bit of money laid up in the Marysville bank. I haven't teamed for nothing all these years, and I want you to have it; there's no one else."

"O, Bill, don't! and the woman wept.

"Get paper and write for me, Jack, like this: 'All I own I give to Marthy Barker Esman forever.' Yes, all right. Now raise me a little, lad, give me the pencil, and I'll try to sign."

His voice came in gasps.

"Witness it, boys. Now get my bank book in my inner pocket. Take it, Marthy, Marthy ..." he fell back exhausted and all was still.

* * * *

Thee weeks later the Widow Esman, brisk and smiling, entered Jim and Jack's little cabin with a bowl of chicken broth in one hand and a little basket of such delicacies as only she could make in the other. Near the open door sat Butter Bill. He was a trifle thinner than his wont and his bronzed cheek looked pale, but a powerful constitution had triumphed and health and strength were just ahead.

He smiled a glad welcome.

"This is of no account now, thank God!" said the widow, laying a little paper on his knee.

"No account! Why not?" demanded Bill. "There were witnesses to that little transaction and the money is yours, hard and fast."

"But, Bill," protested the woman.

"I'm no Injun to take back a free gift. What Bill Curtis gives he gives for keeps."

"But I can't keep it, indeed I can't."

The determined lines tightened around his mouth.

"You took it in good faith. I don't take it back. That settles it." Silence.

"Marthy," gently, "we might compromise. A man and his wife are one. You know how I've always felt since twenty years back, before Hank Esman crossed my trail. I know you've dodged me straight ever since Hank died, but couldn't we fix it up that way, dear little woman?"

The widow's head drooped and twilight fell in the canyon.

Six months later Butter Bill, hale and happy, was harnessing up his team one morning at the foot-hill ranch, and talking to a gray mare with a gleam in her eye that spoke an unsubdued spirit.

"Steady, Vixen! Careful, there, young lady! Ah, my beauty, you did a good job when you pitched us all over the cliff last summer. We didn't just take in the fact at the time, but we both got out of the spill with a whole neck and then we worked our claim just right. Oh, we're cunning, Vixen, we are!" And he beamed a portentous wink toward the distant mountains.

GORKY ... TO RIGA

Russian Author Is Banished From St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—Maxim Gorky, who was released from the fortress yesterday on $2,500 bail, was banished late last night to Riga after he had been informed of the decision of Governor General Trepoff that he could not reside in St. Petersburg.

According to the official statement, Gorky himself preferred a request that he be allowed to reside at Riga and thereupon General Trepoff acceded and the author was conveyed to the railroad station. In the meantime Madame Gorky had been informed of the author's release and went to the railroad station to bid him farewell. Madame Gorky and her son will join Gorky in Riga immediately.

THE GAZETTE AND THE CONTEST.

WE LEARN from Senator Patterson's Denver News that the Gazette "is reputed to have lost about 2,000 circulation because of its unreasoning advocacy of Peabody"; that the Denver Republican has lost 3,000 circulation for the same reason; that the Pueblo Chieftain "claims to have gained 2,000" since it adopted its present policy, and that the Denver Post has experienced a wholesale decline of its circulation," likewise because it supported the Republican contestor.

Verily, there is nothing like getting information from the fountain head and we lose no time in acknowledging our obligation to the Patterson wisdom foundry for confiding to us its impressions of our real condition and that of our three contemporaries. But even the overwhelming sense of gratitude is lost in amazement at and admiration of such omniscience. How did Senator Patterson learn the most carefully guarded secrets of the Gazette, the Republican, the Chieftain and the Post? Echo answers. Echo is the only thing that can answer.

We can not assume to speak for the other three papers, but so far as the Gazette is concerned we beg to remark that if it has lost even twenty circulation "because of its unreasoning advocacy of Peabody" or because of its advocacy of anybody or anything else we are unaware of the fact. Furthermore, so long as the Gazette is convinced of the right and justice of its policies it will continue strictly to adhere to them, whether the effect on its circulation be beneficial or harmful.

The Gazette consistently advocated the election of Governor Peabody because it believed that his election would be the best thing for Colorado. After the election, when doubt was cast on the result, it continued to support him with every resource at its command because it believed that he had a plurality of the honest votes. When the matter was left to the legislature for settlement it expressed its willingness to abide by the decision of that body, based on an honest consideration of the law and the evidence, and it still adheres to that attitude.

If it can be shown beyond question that James H. Peabody received a plurality of the honest votes cast at the election last November he should be seated despite the opposition of any forces which the Democrats may bring to bear. If this can not be shown, then Peabody has not a vestige of claim to the seat, and the Gazette will oppose any efforts to put him in as vigorously as it has supported his contentions in the past.

The Gazette is a Republican newspaper, but it is NOT the organ of any clique or faction; neither is it an adherent to the doctrine of party before principle. In the matter of the Governorship contest its only desire is that absolute justice be done, and the question of whether the beneficiary be a Republican or a Democrat is of secondary consideration. We maintain this attitude, first, because it is right, and second, because we believe that for the legislature to follow any other course than the one above outlined will be fatal to the chances of Republican success in Colorado for years to come.

BRIBERY IN LEGISLATURES.

THE California state Senate has expelled four of its members for accepting bribes. Their cases had been investigated by a special committee which adopted a report recommending such action, and the expulsion immediately followed.

A few weeks ago Representative Comerford of the Illinois legislature intimated that bribes had been accepted by some of his fellow members. A committee was appointed ostensibly to investigate the allegations but really to whitewash the assembly and punish Comerford. They well knew that the accuser would be unable to produce absolute proof of his charges, so they were perfectly safe. The whitewash was complete; the injured innocents were "exonerated" and Comerford was expelled for his audacity. Somewhat similar proceedings have occurred in one or two other legislatures this year.

It may be argued that Comerford made a fool of himself by bringing charges which he was unable to substantiate, and perhaps he did. Perhaps, in current slang, he only got what was coming to him. But just the same nine people out of every ten who have observed the dark ways and occasionally vain tricks of some legislators, are pretty well convinced that Comerford spoke the plain truth. But it is one thing to know something and another thing to be able to prove it—and Comerford's error lay in forgetting this great truth.

The incident in the California legislature Monday will not lower the public estimation of legislatures in general; it will only make the public hope for more expulsions of bribers in the future and fewer whitewashes. There are plenty of general assemblies that would be greatly benefited by more of the strong white light of publicity.

PLEAS FOR GORKY.

THE Russian government seems determined to leave nothing undone which would tend to increase the discontent of the people and change their attitude from passive non-resistance to active adherence to the doctrines of revolution and nihilism. The decision to send Maxim Gorky, the novelist, to exile in some distant province, probably Siberia, is a case in point. Gorky is just now a popular idol. His real name is Pieshkoff and he is of peasant origin. The name under which he writes, and by which he is generally known, is the Russian word for "bitter," an adjective which fittingly describes his life and writings. His books deal with the lives of the oppressed peasants, and have been a strong force in [illegible] emerged classes to a realization of their [illegible] heightened by the part played by Gorky in the events just before and after "Red Sunday"—January 22. The government fully realizes what a hold the novelist has on the people, and it would seem the part of common sense for it to seek to gain their confidence by treating him leniently. For a while it was believed that this would be done. Immediately after his arrest the belief became current that he was to be executed, and at once protests were sent to the Russian authorities from all over Europe and America. Then came the announcement that he would be released, but his freedom was of short duration, for no sooner was he liberated from one prison than he was arrested and sent to another pending the carrying out of his sentence to exile.

The fine hand of General Trepoff, military dictator of St. Petersburg, is plainly apparent in the affair. He has been granted unlimited powers in executing the orders of the dominant war party to wipe out every vestige of liberalism in St. Petersburg, and as he is in thorough accord with the clique he serves there is no doubt that he will use his powers to the limit. According to his method of reasoning, to permit such a man as Gorky to remain at liberty would be tolerating a menace to autocratic institutions, while to remove him would be to extinguish a dangerous firebrand.

The probable effect of the order will be exactly the reverse. Gorky will be regarded as a martyr and his influence in exile will be greater than while he was at large. When he returns if he ever does— it will be with a soul more embittered than ever and a hatred of the autocracy that will amount to fanaticism. This is the usual rule in such cases, and there is no reason to suppose that it will be different in this one.

The Grand Duke Vladimir has decided that it is more courageous to get out on the street and give the nihilists a chance at him than to hide in his palace. Perhaps, but it is also more dangerous.

Once more it is announced that Mr. Rockefeller is soon to be a billionaire. But the announcer failed to take the Kansas legislature into consideration.

PLEASANT TIME AT BRIMMEYER'S.

A party of young folks from Balltown drove out to Peter Brimmeyer's Sunday evening. The party consisted of the Misses Brimmeyer, Blyle, Seigler, and Heles; Messrs. Blyles, Comers, Langs, Herkes and Fattie Heles. The evening was spent in dancing. The Balltown Harp orchestra furnished the music. Mr. Brimmeyer's eldest son, Hubert, and Miss M. Brimmeyer opened the grand march. There was a supper given, one goose for thirty people. As the party were on their way home they upset at Brietbach's. Miss Brimmeyer fell 20 feet, her sister fell 15 feet, and they are still looking for Miss Blyle. Miss Seigler froze her ears and nose.—Balltown Correspondence of Dubuque Times.

Great Inventors of Modern Times.

GEORGE STEPHENSON

GEORGE STEPHENSON is usually referred to as the inventor of the locomotive. As a matter of fact he was the inventor of both the modern locomotive and the modern railway. There were steam engines before his which ran on rails and were used to draw loads, but his was the first which was built according to the principles which today govern the construction of such machines.

There were crude railroads before he built one, but he was the first to propose and construct a railroad according to a plan details in which later engineers have modified, but the general outline of which they have not altered or improved. The account of how this poor and ignorant, but physically and mentally robust and resolute son of a collier educated himself, overcame by sheer force of intellect and will the opposition of English conservatism and stupidity, and effected a revolution in the world's methods of transportation and communication, is one of the most interesting stories in modern history.

Robert Stephenson, father of the great inventor, was fireman of an old colliery pumping engine at Wylam, about eight miles from Newcastle. The house in which George was born was a cottage with four rooms, in each of which lived a laborer's family. In one of these rooms and on an income of 12 shillings a week Robert Stephenson and his wife lived and attempted to rear six children. It was impossible for them to give their offspring schooling; they found it hard to give them bread.

When 14 years old George became assistant fireman at a shilling a day. He at once set to work to fit himself for more profitable work. He repeatedly took his engine apart and put it together, thus acquiring a thorough knowledge of its construction and mode of operation. At 17 years of age he was appointed engineman, his father holding under him the position of fireman, and he soon became the most expert engineer in the neighborhood.

He heard Boulton & Watt were making steam engines far superior to any he had ever seen. To learn about these engines and to get other knowledge which he knew was hidden from him in books, he began when a full grown man to attend night school to learn how to "read, write, and cipher." A great deal of his school work was done by his engine fire at night, and he made rapid progress. His son, Robert, afterward a distinguished engineer, was born in 1803. Determined that his boy should have better opportunities than he had had, Stephenson stinted himself to save money for his education, and when Robert became old enough he carried home from school to his father books which they studied together. Such tireless energy, such indomitable perseverance, backed by a robust constitution, could hardly fail to achieve something considerable. Their record, however, was slow to come. George Stephenson was 30 years old when he was made enginewright of a colliery at Killingsworth at a salary of £100 a year.

In 1813 Stephenson went to see one of Mr. Blenkinsop's engines, which was running on a tramway at Coxlodge. He returned home reflecting on its defects, and came to the conclusion that he could make a better one. It was supposed at that time, even by scientific men, that the friction between the rails and the wheels without cogs would be insufficient, even on level ground, to cause the engine to move, and that, therefore, both wheels and rails must be cogged. Stephenson saw their mistake, and his first locomotive, besides having wheels without cogs, was an improvement over other ones in several other respects.

His second locomotive, which was patented in 1815, was a considerable improvement over his first and contained the germ of all that has since been effected in locomotive building. Engine and railroad he regarded as parts of a single whole. Consequently he also set himself to improve rails and roadbed. He was the first to see and declare that it was essential to the success of a railroad that its tracks should be built on a level and not up and down hill, as was the universal practice before he introduced the right method.

In 1822 Stephenson heard certain capitalists projected the construction of a railroad from Darlington to Stockton for the purpose of hauling coal from the county of Durham. He went to Darlington and offered his services as construction engineer. The directors meant to use horse power. Stephenson persuaded them to use steam, and also to get the parliamentary act authorizing the construction of the road so amended as to permit them to carry passengers. The Stockton and Darlington railroad was the longest that had been projected up to that time and it was the first which it was proposed to use for any purpose except to haul coal a short distance from the collieries. Its construction was, therefore, opposed, as one writer has said, by "all the forces of incredulity that ignores, of conservatism that hates, and of ridicule that mocks." The idea that a train might run as fast as a fleet horse was treated as preposterous. Nevertheless the first train was run over the line on Sept. 27, 1825, with Stephenson in the engine cab and a motley crowd of passengers in the coal wagons. Its maximum speed was fifteen miles an hour.

The success of the Stockton and Darlington enterprise caused some capitalists to decide to build a railroad from Manchester to Liverpool, and Stephenson was hired as their engineer. The opposition in the house of commons to the construction of this line was extreme. "Suppose now," said one honorable member to Stephenson, when he was being examined in the house, "one of these engines to be going along a railroad at nine or ten miles an hour, and that a cow were to stray upon the line; would not that be an awkward circumstance?" "Yes," replied Stephenson, "quite awkward—for the cow."

In spite of the opposition of statesmen, landowners, canal and turnpike proprietors, and mobs, and in spite of the most formidable engineering difficulties, the road was at last finished, and on Sept. 15, 1830, eight of Stephenson's locomotives passed over it in the opening procession. The day, a great success in every other way, was marked by a sad accident. Mr. Huskisson, member of parliament for Liverpool and a warm friend of the railroad, was killed by the locomotive Rocket. On account of this accident the Duke of Wellington refused for many years to enter a railway coach.

Stephenson lived eighteen years to enjoy his triumph, and before his death in 1848 had seen the aspect of industry, of commerce, and of society greatly altered as a result of his almost unsurpassed achievements as an inventor and engineer.

NOT A LUNATIC; JUST A FRESHMAN

The clerks in a Fifth avenue florist establishment looked up from their work today and saw standing in the door a beamish young man with a gigantic blue chrysanthemum stuck in his hat band.

"May I see the proprietor" asked the youth.

The proprietor appeared.

"I'm looking for a job," volunteered he of the blue chrysanthemum.

"I am very sorry, but there are no vacancies at present," said the proprietor.

"That's all right, but I asked you for a job, didn't I?"

"You certainly did," answered the proprietor, who knows how to humor peculiar persons. The young man left.

A few moments later the youth reentered and asked:

"Have you any eggs? If so give me ten dozen."

The proprietor was convinced that he had a lunatic on his hands.

"It has not been our custom to run a hennery in connection with our establishment, but a stray chicken may have wandered into our basement and laid an egg among the flower pots. We will look."

"No, never mind doing that. I asked for the eggs, though, didn't I?"

"You certainly did" was the answer. Then the lad left again.

Five minutes later a clerk came in.

"There's a crazy man down the avenue. He's sitting on H. McK. Twombly's front door steps, with a big blue chrysanthemum in his hat, singing 'Auld Lang Syne,'" said the clerk.

"The same poor chap," observed his employer.

The situation was cleared up soon afterward, when three other young men came into the florist's shop. One of them asked:

"Did a chap with a blue chrysanthemum come here and ask for a job and ten dozen eggs?"

"He did, and you will find him down the avenue on the Twombly stoop. He's crazy," said the florist.

"No he isn't. He's only a Columbia freshman, and we are putting him through a course of sprouts," said the three joyously.

EASTERN STUDENTS TO TAKE ENGINEERING COURSE HERE

Colorado College is Receiving Thoughtful Attention and Is Assured of Handsome Gifts, Says President William F. Slocum.

President and Mrs. Wm. F. Slocum, of Colorado college, returned yesterday morning from the east where they have been for a number of days. During his absence Dr. Slocum preached before the students of Vassar college and made an address at the annual dinner of the alumni of Amherst college, held on Washington's birthday at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York city.

He has been east in the interests of Colorado college, but the definite results of this work cannot be stated at this time; but he found a warm interest in the college and what it is accomplishing. The east is doing much for its own institutions just now, as about every large university is asking for sums of from two to ten millions of dollars. In spite of all this, Colorado college is being considered thoughtfully by large-minded and generous people.

Dr. Slocum found much interest being taken in the engineering school of the college and in the idea that it is necessary for the larger development of the Rocky Mountain country. Without doubt students will be drawn here from all over the country for engineering courses if the school can be put on a strong basis because so many engineers expect to come here ultimately for the work of their profession.

"Never was there such deep interest taken in higher education as there is today," said President Slocum, "and such faith in what it can do and is doing for the country. Colorado college has secured recognition in the best institutions of the east; but such advances have been made in all departments that we here at the college must do our best to hold this reputation. The work that was done even 20 years ago in scientific departments is not an adequate standard of what is being done today. Never was such good work done as is being done today in the colleges and I am profoundly impressed with the devotion and great industry of the teachers in these various institutions.

"Colorado college must more and more stand for the most advanced work and this is what our friends expect of us. It is all this that makes these great endowments so necessary and the equipment of a few years ago is not adequate for the work of today. It is this that the friends of Colorado college will come to see more and more and the same large gifts that these other schools are receiving will surely come to us."

SHORT LINE IS TO BUILD DEPOT ON TEJON STREET

Will Be Located Near Mill Street---New Traffic Arrangements of This Road and Mid and Goes Into Effect Monday---Many Changes.

In connection with the new railroad service which goes into effect today and by which the Short Line will use its cross-town track from its yard in the western part of the city to the Santa Fe station, a depot will probably be erected where the track crosses Tejon street near Mill street. The new depot will be built before the summer's business begins.

The erection of this station will be a great convenience to Springs people living in the northern or extreme southern portion of the city as they will be able to take a car to the station without transferring to the Pike's Peak avenue line. The station will be a small building at which Short Line tickets will be sold and at which all trains both to and from Cripple Creek will stop.

Other important changes will be made on the Short Line today. Through cars from Cripple Creek to Denver and vice versa, will be run; the cars being transferred from the Short Line to the Colorado & Southern. Another feature of the new service will be the C. & S. cafe cars, which will be at the disposal of Short Line travelers between Colorado Springs and Denver. Five-minute connections will be made by the Short Line and C. & S. trains with the exception of the train which arrives in this city from Denver at 6 o'clock in the evening. Passenegers for Cripple Creek on this train will be allowed 30 minutes in Colorado Springs for dinner. Five minute connections will also be made by the Short Line trains and the C. & S. trains to and from Pueblo.

Another important change will be that J. H. Springer today becomes city ticket agent of the Short Line and all Short Line tickets will be sold at the C. & S. city office, 119 East Pike's Peak avenue. Arrangements have also been made to have 1,000-mile tickets of the Colorado & Southern and the Santa Fe system honored on the Short Line and excess baggage scrip of C. & S. issue will be honored on the Short Line.

During the coming summer branch ticket offices will be maintained by the Short Line at Colorado City and Manitou and special electric cars will be run from Manitou direct to the Santa Fe station in time to catch the Short Line trains. Coaches will be reserved for these passengers and all Cripple Creek tickets over the Short Line sold at Manitou and Colorado City will be honored by the street car company.

Arrangements which have formerly existed between the Short Line and the Denever & Rio Grande company with reference to travel between Colorado, Denver and Pueblo will hereafter exist between the Colorado Midland and the D. & R. G. Midland tickets for Cripple Creek will be sold at the D. & R. G. city ticket office on North Tejon street as well as at the local office of the Midland and all Midland trains will arrive and depart from the Rio Grande depot.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY HIS PLAYMATE

ARTHUR BRUENING FINALLY TELLS TRUE STORY OF MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING NEAR IVYWILD—SHIELDED FRIEND.

Arthur Bruening, the boy who was shot last Friday, south of town, has gone back on his story in which he accused an unknown boy of deliberately shooting at him from the top of the hill, and the mystery of the affair has been cleared up.

A playmate of Arthur's, who was with him at the time helping him drive the cows, had the gun that was discharged, accidentally it is believed, and the two boys invented the other story in order to save themselves trouble at home. Both boys had been forbidden to handle pistols or firearms of any kind and both knew that severe reprimands would await them if the truth became known, so the two concocted the story about another boy and held to it strongly. But a little girl chanced to see Arthur's companion with a 22-caliber rifle in his hand about an hour after the shooting. She told the teacher of the Ivywild school and the latter, after a long "sweating" process, finally got the truth and informed Mr. Bruening and he got it corroborated by his son, who was loath to admit the facts.

Mr. Bruening thinks it was purely an accident and does not wish to harm the boy who had the gun and for that reason would not make known his name.

CASE CAME TO SUDDEN STOP

PLAINTIFF MOVED TO DISMISS SUIT FOR 200,000 SHARES OF MINING STOCK—OTHER COURT NEWS.

The case of T. A. Harding vs. W. M. Burris et al. came to a sudden termination in the district court yesterday. After the close of testimony for the plaintiff, counsel for the plaintiff moved that the case be dismissed without prejudice. The motion was granted and an order entered awarding the defendant judgment for casts.

It was expected that the case would involve a hard fight as it involves some 200,000 shares of El Paso stock. The plaintiff claimed to own an interest in a lease upon the Little May, Australia, and other lodes in the aristocratic portion of the Cripple Creek district, and sought to recover one-third of the proceeds of the sale of the lease. The case was tried before Judge R. E. Lewis.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

William Shaffer, a brakeman of Dennison, Ohio, was confined to his bed for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. "I used many remedies," he says. "Finally I sent to McCaw's drug store for a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, at which time I was unable to use hand or foot, and in one week's time was able to go to work as happy as a clam." For sale by all leading druggists.

DUFF RELEASED TO GO TO MEXICO

WELL-KNOWN CONFIDENCE MAN SAYS HE IS GOING TO LEAD A NEW LIFE AND QUIT BUNCO GAME.

Under an order from the district court yesterday Sheriff O. P. Grimes released Adolph Duff from the county jail, and he will at once start for Old Mexico. Duff has been in the county jail for five months, having been arrested and convicted upon a charge of gambling and running a policy wheel. Prior to his release Duff professed religion and told the sheriff that he was determined to forsake his old methods of living, and in order to avoid his old companions he proposed to go to Mexico and start life anew. Should Duff return to this city and resume his old bunco games he will at once be rearrested upon another charge, which the sheriff has hanging over him, but he will not be bothered so long as he behaves decently.

FORGOT TO RETURN BORROWED WAGON

MONTA BRENNAN TOOK IT TO DENVER WITH HIM AND IS NOW IN THE COUNTY JAIL.

Monta Brennan, who was arrested in Denver yesterday by a deputy sheriff from this county upon a warrant charging petty larceny, was taken before Justice Ruby yesterday to plead. The warrant was issued last Saturday upon complaint made by Mrs. F. A. Chapin who charges that Brennan came to her and borrowed a wagon box to use a few days. He retained possession of the wagon box for about two weeks and then moved to Denver taking the wagon with him. The warrant was turned over to the sheriff for service with the result that Mr. Brennan was presented to the court yesterday afternoon. After hearing the testimony the court took the matter under advisement until today, and remanded the defendant to the custody of the sheriff.

ST. DAVID'S DAY

Welsh Residents of the City Will Honor the Memory of Their Patron Saint This Evening.

The Cymrodorion society will hold their St. David's day celebration this evening at Red Men's hall. The society will have a banquet which will be followed by a program in Welsh. "No English spoken here" would be a good sign to be placed in the hall for the members of the society will try to make the meeting in all respects similar to the ones which are held in every city and hamlet in Wales on the anniversary day of the patron saint of the country. Miss Jenet Griffiths, a talented Welsh singer of Denver, will be down to take part in the program of the evening.

SECRETS OF "THE BASTILE AND THE IRON MASK"

NOTED FRENCH HISTORIAN WILL REVEAL SECRETS OF EARLY DAYS IN FRANCE—WITH ILLUSTRATIONS.

M. Frantz Funck-Brentano of Paris will lecture at Palmer hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon on "The Bastile and the Man of the Iron Mask." The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides, and he will speak a few words in English explanatory of each picture. The main portion of the lecture will be in French.

M. Funck-Brentano is one of the most eminent savants and literary men of Paris and is widely known as the historian who discovered the identity of the famed "man in the iron mask." As custodian of the records of the Bastile he has become more familiar than any other person with certain incidents and events that have made French history. Those who attend this afternoon's lecture will hear an excellent discourse on phases of the history of France in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

The noted savant will arrive in Colorado Springs at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of these diseases a threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. There is no question whatever about this, as, during the thirty years and more that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of a cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." For sale by all leading druggists.

ROSE NICOL SHOOT IS PROVING RICH

Development Work Is Going on at a Rapid Rate and Some Ore Is Being Saved—Sinking in Shaft Continues.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—Operations on the Rose Nicol property are being pushed forward and the work is all of a most important character and will no doubt soon result in placing that property on a permanent shipping basis.

On the north end of the claim the lessees are making an upraise from the Gourley tunnel level in order to make a connection with the surface workings from which a considerable tonnage of ore has been shipped in the past.

Good ore is being saved and the showing in the bottom level of the property is extremely gratifying to the management as well as to the lessees.

It has already been proved that the ore shoot persists and continues into the Dexter property adjoining, as at the present time it is being worked in the Dexter property to very good advantage by other lessees. On the Battle mountain side of the gulch Walden and associates are pushing development work as fast as possible. Recently a contract was let for the sinking of an additional 100 feet in the shaft which when completed will give it an entire depth of 500 feet.

Remarkably good ore has been opened in these workings and the operators have a big proposition before them and one that is quite likely to make them a good bunch of money.

MONTE CRISTO ATTRACTS THE ATTENTION OF MINING MEN

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—The development work being performed at the present time on the Monte Cristo claim belonging to the Magnet Rock company and located on Beacon hill is being watched by mining men with considerable interest for it is a well known fact that the extension of the El Paso's rich ore shoots extends through the territory of the Monte Cristo claim.

The operators are of the belief that it will be necessary to sink another lift at least before the ore is encountered, as when the rich ore was encountered in the El Paso territory it was found on the fourth level and was extremely rich in that property. Should any cross veins be encountered in the Magnet Rock property it is quite likely that they will be sufficiently enriched from that main ore shoot to make a veritable treasure vault of this fraction of ground.

James S. Murphy and Dave Mason, two of the best known mine operators in the district have a lease on this claim and are now pushing development work with the full intention of keeping the work up until pay ore is struck.

THE McKINNEY EXTENSION COMPANY INSTALLS BOILER

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—The McKinney extension company is pushing the work of installing a large boiler preparatory to putting in a large plant of machinery on the property between the Anaconda and Mary McKinney mines or in other words, in the center of the burnt district formerly being the town of Anaconda.

The company is pushing the work of sinking a new shaft a short distance away from the old Arno shaft. The latter, which has been sunk to a depth of nearly 300 feet, will be used for the purpose of an air shaft which will guarantee good air to the miners working in the shaft below.

Operations are being watched by mining men as everyone is looking forward to the time when this property will be one of the largest in the district.

OWNERS VIEW COMMONWEALTH

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—C. S. Hankins and W. J. Rodman, of Decatur, Ill., stockholders in the Commonwealth Gold Mining company, arrived from the east late last week and have concluded a general inspection of their property of which Mr. Hankins is the heaviest stockholder. That they expressed satisfaction with conditions goes without saying for the Commonwealth enjoys one of the best locations in the district, being situated at the northeast slope of Beacon hill and having for its neighbors such producers as the Mabel M., on the southwest and the Elkton on the northeast. It is understood that the owners have given orders for steady exploration.

MINING DEED.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—A deed was filed with the county clerk and recorder today whereby the Humboldt Gold Mining company transferred to the Hummel Gold Mining company the Humboldt and Grouse claims, containing a little over eight acres, located on Ironclad hill, one of the richest sections of the district. The consideration named in the transfer is $8,640.

HOBBS SECURES LEASE ON THE PHOENIX CLAIM.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 28.—John H. Hobbs, of Colorado Springs, has secured a lease on the Phoenix claim, located on Gold hill and has already started active operations.

The lessee is sinking a number of surface shafts in order to thoroughly prospect the surface and whenever a showing is encountered a good sized working shaft will be sunk at that point.

Gives Health, Vigor and Tone.

Herbine is a boon for sufferers from anaemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shriel, Middlesborough, Ill., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood and have found nothing to benefit me like Herbine. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's life time." 50c. Sold by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

CRIPPLE CREEK TRAINS VIA THE SCENIC SHORT LINE TO AND FROM SANTA FE STATION.

On and after March 1st passenger trains of the Short Line will arrive at and depart from the Santa Fe station, Colorado Springs. Trains for the Gold Camp will leave daily at 10:35 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Observation cars on all trains.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE.

The business on the Colorado Springs Mining Stock exchange during the past month amounted to 6,464,563 shares with a cash value of $710,578. The record for the month of February, 1904, was 2,955,685 shares, valued at $183,933. The increase over last year, during the month of February, was 3,508,878 shares with a value of $526,639.

The market yesterday was soft in spots, but on the whole trading was satisfactory. Consolidated was strong, selling up to 13½. Acacia was weaker and sold down to 11⅞. El Paso weakened to 1.96. Gold Dollar, which made such a surprising gain Monday, opened at 10⅛, fractionally stronger, but declined to 9¾. Portland was strong and sold up to 1.95. Work was in good demand and strong at 16⅜. The prospect and miscellaneous lists were well traded in but without features.

The stock of the Gould Mining company was listed yesterday. The properties comprise about 37 acres on Raven hill. The stock sold at 4⅜.

WELL ORGANIZED ONSLAUGHT ON PRICES IN THE STOCK MARKET—CLOSE IS DECIDEDLY WEAK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The reactionary tendency in stocks gained force today and was of more influence on speculative sentiment than yesterday. A Monday reaction is viewed with equanimity during the course of a rise in stocks, for reasons well understood but there are less plausible explanations for the carrying over of a selling movement into the second day of the week.

The day's operations disclosed a well organized bear party in the trading and their attacks on prices and the success that met them were testimony to the vulnerable condition into which the speculative situation has fallen. The falling back of prices was not attended with unfavorable news developments and was clearly due to technical causes.

For one thing the new comers in the market for the outside public were disappointed at having bought stocks yesterday morning at the top level only to see them decline. There was in consequence a significant decrease in the outside demand for stock and an inclination by the outsiders to sell out holdings. The failure of confirmation by official announcements of any of the numerous reports recently circulated begot a spirit of timidity amongst buyers. This was the most pronounced in promoting selling on account of the large profits shown by the advances which the lately current rumors had caused.

Many buyers were prompted to take profits offered rather than run the risk of the failure of reported projects to be consumated. The shaky condition of prices yesterday had the influence of placing stop loss orders at prices below the current level as a precautionary measure. In the recent feverish condition of the market brokers have been inclined to insist on this measure of precautions on the part of the customers.

The action of the market showed very plainly that raiding tactics were resorted to, wide declines and sudden recoveries showing the eager haste to cover shorts on the part of the bears. The feeble rally late in the day was not held and as the pressure increased, low prices for the day were made in the final dealings and the close was decidedly weak. New York Central's loss ran to nearly five points and the other active speculative leaders were down from 2 to 3 points.

Bonds were easy. Total sales, par value, $4,720,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged.

JULY FOLLOWS IN ITS FOOTSTEPS AND PRICES GO DOWN UNDER THE LOAD OF OFFERINGS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Some weakness in the wheat market was manifest at the start. The sensational slump in prices yesterday was the principal factor in the situation today. Opinion was persistent that May has been abandoned by Wall Street promoters and that there was little possibility of any renewal of bull interest in that delivery. In consequence there was a scramble to sell the May options.

When trading began commission houses were active sellers and for the greater part of the session the bulk of offerings came from that source. Toward the noon hour the market was further weakened by an increase of 249,000 bushels in the world's visible supply against a decrease of 2,700,000 bushels last year. Selling became more general during the last hour and the market suddenly broke under the load of offerings.

May fell to 113½ and July to 98½. The close was almost at the lowest point reached, final quotations on May being at 113⅝ and July at 98⅝@¾.

Weakness of wheat was the main cause of large selling of corn and of a consequent decline in values. The market closed at about the lowest of the day with May at 47½@⅝.

Trading in oats was comparatively quiet and the market had an easy undertone. May closed at 31⅛, a fractional net decline.

Provisions had a good start and prices showed a fair advance at the outset. Later the break in grains general selling, resulting in a considerable decline. At the close May pork was off 10, lard was down 7½ and ribs were 2½ lower.

Your Case Can Be Cured.

No. 11 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., April 28, 1903.

When I was first married I found that my strength and health were gradually diminishing. I became nervous and irritable, and was in bed a week and sometimes ten days of every month, and had intense bearing down pains. My husband had the best physician for me and I used his medicine for nearly four months, but I gradually grew worse, had less strength, and finally, I was unable to leave my bed at all.

A friend who was calling on me brought me a bottle of Wine of Cardui and was so loud in its praise that I told her that I would take it to please her.

I was surprised and pleased that before I had used the bottle I really felt better, so I kept on using it. Eight bottles brought back my lost health and strength, and I have not had a sick day in six months.

Ella Finnegan
Treasurer, St. Andrews' Society.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Finnegan had little hope of relief because she knew that every time she had those spells of menstrual suffering with attendant bearing down pains she was weaker. And every month the pain was growing more severe.

But Mrs. Finnegan was cured by Wine of Cardui. She is now so well that there are few women who would not be glad to have the health she has. And any woman who has those dreaded bearing down pains can have the same relief.

You can be free from menstrual irregularities if you take this pure vegetable wine. Why don't you take it when you see what it has done for others? Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

Your druggist has $1.00 bottles.

Consumption Threatened

C. Unger, 211 Maple St., Champaign, Ill., writes: "I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies and I was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR. It cured me, and I have not been troubled since."

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

A. M. Ake, Wood, Ind., writes: "Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages. I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble."

COLORADO CITY OWES BOARD BILL FOR SEVEN YEARS

Steve Garcer brought suit against Andrew Provocak, in Justice C. F. Gleason's court yesterday for a board bill to the amount of $42.42 of seven years' standing. The defendant pleaded statute limitation, but as he had been absent from the state a part of the time the court took the case under advisement until Thursday.

COLORADO CITY NEWS NOTES.

Dave Sponsllier harvested a big crop of mushrooms yesterday.

Ranchmen are bringing jack rabbits to the city for sale by the wagon load.

Dr. J. F. Willard has sufficiently recovered from a recent attack of the grippe to again be at his office.

Charles Reynolds and Will G. Bell left yesterday for a hunting trip on the plains 40 miles east of Colorado Springs.

A telegram was received yesterday by O. C. Shackelford announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Fouts, of Moline, Kan.

The Ladies' Town Improvement society will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. M. M. Sawyer, president, 428 Colorado avenue, for the purpose of arranging for park and other improvements in the immediate future.

NOT FOR BEST FARM

In the State.

"I saw so much in the papers about the wonderful cures effected by Pyramid Pile Cure, I determined to give it a trial. I bought from my druggist one fifty-cent box and used it as directed, and by the time I had used the last 'pyramid' I was entirely cured; in four days after I began to use the 'pyramids' all inflammation was gone. I was perfectly easy all the time, the excessive discharge stopped at once, and stools became easy and gentle.

"I was unable to get my own firewood for four months, and half the time when I could walk at all I had to walk half bent. I used many pile remedies, salves and ointments, all to no effect until I used one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and was cured.

"I would not be afflicted as I was four months ago for the best farm in the state of Arkansas. I can give proof and reference of the wonderful cure to all who are afflicted as I was. Please publish my letter that I may advise the afflicted." W. E. Wallis, Piggot, Ark., Box 26.

The experience of Mr. Wallace is that of thousands of others who suffer for years with the most painful forms of hemorrhoids, or piles, and after trying everything they hear of, give up all hope of a cure and look for temporary relief only. To all such a little book published by Pyramid Pile Co., Marshall, Mich., brings glad tidings, as it tells all about the cause and cure of piles, and is sent free for the asking.

AMUSEMENTS

THE JEFFERSONS IN "THE RIVALS."

...the offering at the Opera house this ...ning will be Joseph, Jr., and William ...erson in Sheridan's comedy, "The ...Rivals." An exchange says:

The sons of Joseph Jefferson are following the footsteps of their father with honor. More than this, one of those sons, in the part that his father made his own, is winning praise from critics who measure him by the high standard furnished by that father.

"The Rivals" as presented by the Jeffersons' company, is the arrangement made to give Bob Acres the center of the stage, but it is still a finished play and well worth the regard that is shown for it. The company is adequate, the settings of the play, if not elaborate, are all that are required, and the stage management is what was to be expected in a company that has supported Jefferson the elder.

As a whole, the production was a more finished presentation than the opera house here is likely to see again in many a day or night. It was worthy in every way the large audience that laughed and applauded through the three acts.

William W. Jefferson, who plays Bob Acres, "fighting Bob," is fitted by nature to assume the character that his father has made famous. His work is not an imitation, but if it were, he still would deserve the applause that is given to him.

As Sir Lucius O'Trigger, the older brother, Joseph Jefferson, Jr., has less opportunity, but he makes what can be made of it. His lines and the development of the character suffer in the ...sion of the play as given, but he is ...w the less the rollicking, devil-may-care Irishman, whose love of a fight makes Bob Acres' cowardice all the more ridiculous.

"THE SILVER SLIPPER."

The management of the "Silver Slipper," which is again to be presented at the Opera house on next Saturday evening, under the caption of "The Second Edition," claims to carry more gowns and costumes than any other attraction, either theatrical or musical, that tours the country this season. This company is said to be provided with two complete productions, i. e., two sets of scenery (very large and medium) and two sets of dresses, which permits of changing every character—Venus girls, Sexette girls, Student girls and the Champagne dancers, and girl and boy chorus. Whenever the engagement exceeds one night, both productions will be used, and to those who are aware of John C. Fisher's lavish dressing it will certainly prove an interesting statement, as it will give those who are fond of viewing pretty gowns an unexpected opportunity in this direction. The wardrobe of "The Silver Slipper" contains over 700 costumes, and in the collection are gowns from some of the most famous establishments of Paris, London, Berlin and New York; scores of gowns from Worth, Lefebre and Pasquen, Paris; Jay's, London; and creations from Mrs. Osborn, Altman, Lord & Taylor and Miss Ward, New York city. There are any number of these dresses, which include ball, reception, driving and walking modern gowns, that cost from $150 to $750 each, while the fancy costumes of the chorus and dancers easily represent an outlay of thousands of dollars. To see the smart frocks this year is to see "The Silver Slipper" and the girls who know how to wear them and handle the trains.

"The Silver Slipper" is claimed to be in every way considerably larger than when seen here, and has the best cast ever engaged, to say nothing of the scores of stunning girls and those whirlwind English dancing misses, who took us off our feet last year.

THE EMPIRE THEATER.

The attendance at the Empire yesterday broke all previous records. It was almost impossible for the management to handle the people and the show seemed to be more than satisfactory as the applause on all of the acts was deafening.

Devoy and Peri open the performance with a wonderfully clever and neat dancing and singing act. Miss Peri is an artist of wonderful talent and won the crowds immediately.

Brown Brothers in their musical act have no peers. Their act is a most versatile one and introduces the choicest selections of high class music to be played. No act in a long time has created such a furore.

The ever popular Carrell is singing "'Neath the Pines of Vermont" in a most charming manner. It is a good song and the slides are beautiful.

Conlon and Russell are very good. Their stuff is all new and excellently rendered.

The moving picture is again a feature of the performance and is a headliner entitled "The Chicken Thief." The subject is good and the situations most ludicrous. It looks like this will be the record week for attendance and the show is so very good that it fully merits any possible attendance.

GERMAN MUSIC

Mrs. F. A. Faust Gave Splendid Address Last Night at College Under Auspices of Faculty.

Mrs. Frederick A. Faust gave a fine illustrated musical talk last evening in Perkins hall under the auspices of the faculty in music of Colorado college. While the audience was by no means as large as the event deserved, there were present a large majority of the music lovers of the city.

Mrs. Faust charmed her hearers because of her easy conversational style of address and the superb execution of her portion of the illustrative music. She was ably assisted by Mrs. John Speed Tucker, soprano; Mrs. Daniel Thatcher, violinist; Miss Manning, pianist.

Schumann's personality and compositions were spoken of more at length than other representatives of the "German Romantic School of Music," the title of Mrs. Faust's talk, as he was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of that particular school. Each number upon the musical program illustrated some especial phase of Schumann's remarkable writings.

The works of Schuett, von Fielitz, Richard Strauss, Moszkowsky and Franz are all very modern and these composers show the characteristics of the present German Romantic school.

Mrs. Tucker's thoroughly artistic interpretation of the songs gave great pleasure and she was in splendid voice.

Mrs. Thatcher's playing of the violin numbers was marked by a fire and brilliancy that was most satisfactory; and Miss Manning at the second piano performed her part admirably.

FAILED.

All efforts have failed to find a better remedy for coughs, colds and lung troubles than Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold. J. N. Patterson, Nashua, Iowa, writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half a dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world." Sold by The Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN TO PLAY HIGH FIVE.

The sixth and last of the series of games of high five which have been played during the winter between the three volunteer hose companies of the city, will be played next Thursday evening at the Reed Hose house, 19 East Las Animas street. The standing of the companies at the present time is as follows: Adams Hose No. 4, first; Reed Hose No. 6, second; Sinton Hose No. 5, third. Six games will be played at the session Thursday evening and all members of the Reed company are urged to be present. The winning team will receive a present of value of $9.

INVESTIGATING SALE OF SECOND-HAND CLOTHING.

The Rev. E. Evans-Carrington, secretary and manager of the Associated Charities, is investigating the sale of second hand clothing donated for church and charitable purposes. A woman in Snyder, Colo., has written Postmaster L. C. Dana, stating that clothing of this kind is sold in that town at exorbitant prices, and that she believes the clothing is purchased here at low prices and then sent out to small towns over the state and sold at an increased price.

CRIPPLE CREEK TRAINS CHANGE.

Beginning March 1, Colorado Midland passenger trains to and from Cripple Creek district will leave from and arrive at D. & R. G. depot, Colorado Springs. Trains leave for Cripple Creek at 10:35 a. m. and 7:10 p. m. D. & R. G. depot.

An exceedingly well chosen miscellaneous program was presented yesterday afternoon by the Colorado Springs Musical club in Perkins hall, as follows:

Quartet—Parting March From Leonore Symphony ..... Raff
Misses Lord, Hull, Stevens, Bispham. (Students.)
A Song of Thanksgiving ..... Allitsen
Mrs. Vining.
Rhapsodie, No. 12 ..... Liszt
Mrs. Hemus.
Allegro Risoluto.
Con Variazione.
Rondo a la russe ..... Schutt
Mrs. Thatcher.
A Dream ..... Rubinstein
If Thou Wert Blind ..... Noel Johnson
Mrs. Vining.
Quartet—Overture to "Fidelio" .. Beethoven
Mrs. Snaretts, Miss Baker, Miss Heizer, Miss Dickerman.

Mrs. Faust, the president, announced that in spite of careful management upon the part of the committee in charge of the series of artists' concerts, there was a deficit of $160, and at once a subscription was started and $100 was raised. As only a portion of the members of the club were present, they and all others so inclined will be given an early opportunity to assist.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The awards in the calendar contest held in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will be made tonight. Although there were fewer entries than had been hoped for, the work was well done and much originality of thought was displayed.

Secretary McLean has gone to Fort Collins and Golden on Y. M. C. A. work. He will return on Wednesday.

Mr. McLean will have charge of the new bible class of twenty which was recently formed at the association.

The Dixie Jubilee singers are the next entertainers in the Star entertainment course. The singers will be heard in Perkins hall on Saturday.

MORALITY PLAY OF FIFTEENTH CENTURY

"Everyman," the fifteenth century morality play, will be presented by the Ben Greet company of London under the auspices of the art and literature department of the Woman's club at the Opera house next Monday afternoon and evening. The company has just closed a most successful week in Denver, but this will be the first time that any member of the famous company has ever appeared in Colorado Springs. In New York last season, the play created much interest and discussion. Mr. Greet will address the students of Colorado college on "Elizabethan Literature," in Perkins hall next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF '97 WILL HOLD A REUNION

Members of the class of 1897 of the Colorado Springs High school will hold a reunion at the home of Curt Goerke, 131 Cave avenue, in Manitou Thursday evening. The program will include a number of toasts. This class numbered 25 graduates, and it is expected that at least 15 of these will gather at the reunion to enjoy a social evening and talk over old school days.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price, including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions, but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.
